Thank you for the prompt reply. I will give your message to the person involved.....for the Income Support staff in Fort Smith as they do not seem to understand that a person should end up with more...not less assistance after the Federal raise.

Thank you,

David,

With the federal change, we have made changes so that we do not look at that as income where before it did. All families should be receiving more money as such and we are currently working on doing the same for our NWT child benefit. It will not reflect the income assistance unless other forms of income have been determined such as a part time job.

Sir,

Is it a fact that since the Federal Government raised the family allowance by $260 for a mother with two children under 17 that she will no longer receive a food or clothing allowance for these two children?

If true this mother will be receiving less than before the Feds raised the family allowance.

At least at the Fort Smith Income Assistance office this is true.

That is a brazen claw back if I ever saw one.
