FOREWARD

The Public Hearings were held in Yellowknife on November 1st and 2nd, 1965 in Hay River on November 3rd, Inuvik on November 5th and in Edmonton on November 9th giving ample opportunity to employers, trade unions, employees, other associations and individuals residing or deeply concerned with the economic growth and development in the Mackenzie District of the Northwest Territories, to express their views.

The Board conducted a further Public Hearing at Frobisher Bay and finally concluded its hearings in Ottawa on December 10th.

We are most appreciative of the arrangement made for familiarization trips made to Tundra, Tuktoyaktuk, Fort Simpson, Fort Smith and Hall Beach. Informal discussions with local residents at these interesting settlements and at the Board's Hearings gave to the members of the Board a broader understanding of the economic and social impacts of labour standards on the people of the Territories. These "grass-root" discussions were of vital importance to the Board in determining the proper course to follow in its recommendations. Legislation to be meaningful must be acceptable to the majority of the people and framed to stimulate the economic development of the country; protecting the worker from exploitation by establishing standards for employment that will enhance the standards of living for all the citizens of the Territories.

In all, thirty-one (31) written briefs and submissions and several verbal ones were submitted. Copies of the briefs will be filed in the Commissioner's office.

We are indebted to the Commissioner for the background information and material pertaining to the history and present trends of development of Canada's last frontier, The Northwest Territories, to Miss Edith Lorentsen, Director, Legislation Branch, Federal Department of Labour, for the legislative material supplied; to Mr. C.W. Gilchrist of the Territorial Division, Secretary to the Board of Inquiry, for his efficient manner in carrying out his assigned duties and to the number of administrators of the Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Department who did everything possible to make our visit in the Northwest Territories a very memorable and pleasant one.

We are extremely grateful for the wise counsel received from the individuals in submitting their views on this important question of implementation of labour standards. Special emphasis must be made of our thanks and appreciation to the representatives of the residents. One cannot be but delighted with their expressions of love for the North, their determination to assist in the development of their country, and their kind attitude towards the members of the Board will not be forgotten.

Prior to the Board commencing hearings copies of the draft Northwest Territories Labour Standards (Ordinance) had been distributed and formed the basis of the discussions at the hearings. Individuals and representatives of organizations appearing before the Board expressed fear that little attention would be paid to their submissions and that the draft Ordinance would be forced on them. They were assured that the whole purpose of the appointment of the Board of Inquiry was to fully explore the feasibility of the adoption of labour standards for the Northwest Territories, and that their views and recommendations were of vital importance to the Board for it to reach a determination on this so important matter of labour standards. With this assurance of the Board a climate of complete understanding of the functions of the Board and the responsibilities of the individuals and representatives of organizations was firmly established.

With an endeavour to make this report as brief as possible, the following is a summary of the highlights of the submissions made at the Hearings.

HOURS OF WORK

In the main, the proposed labour standard which received the most attention and divergent views of management, labour and employees was the limiting of hours of work.

Management strongly suggested:

(a) As the mining industry is the main prop of the economy of the Northwest Territories any legislation that would restrict this industry would have a detrimental affect on the whole economy of the Territories.

(b) Mining, in particular, exploration and development diamond drilling, construction and transportation industries must be exempt from maximum hours of labour and in any case longer hours are necessary than those proposed in the draft Ordinance.

(c) Mines in isolated areas must be exempt from hours of work legislation. Imposition of proposed regulations would be a disservice to the union, hamper future mine development and increase operating costs. The ability to recruit workmen to isolated mines would be impaired if the workmen are prohibited from working long hours to earn large wage incomes.

In one open pit mining operation limited to four and a half (4½) months work per year the collective agreement provides a ten (10) hour day, seven (7) days per week in pit and a twelve (12) hour day, seven (7) day week in mill. NOTE: Agreement provides for payment of overtime at the rate of one and one half times rate of wages on all hours over eight (8) in a day and forty-four (44) in a week.

(d) Due to climatic conditions and the shortage of skilled manpower the right to work overtime is the desire of both employer and employee without the necessity of obtaining permission to do so from the Commissioner.

(e) Oil well drilling could operate on a normal daily work schedule for extended periods with accumulated days of rest of one (1) day for each six (6) day's worked. This accumulation of days of rest with pay be granted at the end of a four (4) to six (6) month period. While companies recommend an eight (8) hour day and a forty-eight (48) hour week, they suggested the employees would prefer a twelve (12) hour day and overtime pay after two hundred and eight (208) hours a month.

(f) For geophysical and seismic exploration and oil well servicing the Ordinance should provide monthly hours of work of two hundred and eight (208) similar to the regulations in effect in Alberta and British Columbia, based on a forty-eight (48) hour week.

(g) The construction industry suggests a regular nine (9) hour day and forty-eight (48) hour week with a ten (10) hour day and a sixty (60) hour week maximum without the necessity of obtaining a permit from the Commissioner.

However, if hours of work are lost due to weather conditions a twelve (12) hour day would be required to make up lost time. No overtime pay on hours made up due to weather, otherwise time and one half after nine (9) hours in a day and forty-eight (48) in a week, whichever is greater.

(h) One large segment of the construction industry suggested that contractors from the outside engaged in projects in the Territories should be free from the application of any labour standards legislation adopted by the Northwest Territories.

(i) Trucking industry vitally concerned with the impact of limiting hours of work, particularly when operating on long hauls to isolated areas over winter, 'ice' temporary roads. Very desirous of having flexibility in hours of work to accommodate the conditions of trucking to economically provide this important service.

(j) The hotel industry suggests the proposed limitation of hours of work would adversely affect the industries ability to provide service to the public.

(k) Guides engaged in hunting and fishing must be able to work unlimited hours to give proper service to the tourists.

Labour:

Organized Labour strongly urge the adoption of an eight (8) hour day, forty (40) hour week, Monday to Friday; Saturday and Sunday to be rest days in underground and surface mining. The same hours of work generally with provisions for exemptions to certain industries where it is proven that such limitation of hours would prove to be harmful to the industry.

Spokesmen for unorganized employees would agree to an eight (8) hour day and a forty-eight (48) hour week and payment of overtime for all excessive hours. While suggesting such hours of work apply as maximum to all employees, some special arrangements would be necessary in mining, exploration and other projects or undertakings in isolated areas.

MINIMUM WAGE

- (a) The vast majority of management stated the proposed minimum wage of One Dollar and twenty-five cents ($1.25) was satisfactory.
- (b) Some employers urged the inclusion of fringe benefit costs as part of wages and that the provisions of section 14 of the proposed Ordinance should be left to collective bargaining as these items were considered as fringe benefits. They further suggested that section 14 is harmful particularly as the fixing of costs, etc., was in the sole discretion of an individual, the Commissioner.
- (c) Suggestions were made to consider fixing the minimum rate at One Dollar ($1.00) per hour to encourage employment of local labour.
- (d) One submission advocated a novel idea of fixing a higher minimum rate than One Dollar and twenty-five cents ($1.25) per hour but to be paid for all hours of work whether overtime hours or not.
- (e) Organized labour and employee's representative urged the adoption of a $1.50 rate generally and $1.75 per hour rate in mining. These suggested higher rates were necessary due to higher cost of living in the Territories.

ANNUAL VACATIONS

- (a) Employers agreed annual vacations be established on the principle of two (2) weeks vacation with pay after completion of one (1) year's employment and in each ensuing year of employment, and in the main did not oppose the provision of Part 3 of the proposed Ordinance. However, doubted the usefulness of all the authority prescribed in section 22 of Part 3.

(b) Organized labour urged the Board to consider longer vacations with pay than proposed on the following formula:

Two (2) weeks with pay after one (1) year or 4% whichever greater,

Three (3) weeks with pay after five (5)
years or 6% ,

Four (4) weeks with pay after ten (10) years or 8%.

GENERAL HOLIDAYS

(a) Management suggest holidays should be limited to seven (7) days and the employee receive his normal pay for the holiday providing the holiday falls within his normal days of work in the week and he has not failed to report for work on the work day before and the work day after the holiday.

Opposition was expressed to the requirement of paying an employee two and one-half (2½) times the rate of pay for work performed on a holiday and suggest double time rate be ample.

(b) Organized labour suggested ten (10) paid general holidays. Employees required to work on a general holiday be paid two and one-half ($2\frac{1}{2}$) times their rate of pay plus an additional day off by mutual agreement at regular pay.

(c) Organized Labour in the construction field recommend nine (9) general holidays and the payment of double time to an employee who worked on a holiday.

An examination of the proposed Ordinance reveals that it is practically identical to The Canada Labour (Standards) Code which came into force on July 1st 1965. This Code is applicable to works undertaken in businesses within the legislative authority of the parliament of Canada.

A very general comment on this observation is that The Canada Labour (Standards) Code may be described as a very advanced labour legislation, perhaps the most advanced in Canada in the sense that on the whole it provides for more benefits for employees than do the provisions of the various provincial statutes dealing with these matters. And may be said also to be more restrictive in most respects on the freedom of employers than provincial legislation.

It is strongly suggested that generally employers affected by The Canada Code are large, long established corporations engaged in certain limited fields of federal jurisdiction, such as banks, railways, communication, transportation and that legislation that may be appropriate to these long established industries is not necessarily appropriate for other industries, particularly those engaged in pioneer development in the outlying areas of the Northwest Territories. Areas of the country which are largely in the developing or pioneer stage should not take the lead in adopting legislation which might discourage development. If the growth of the North is to be fostered every encouragement should be given to the investment of risk capital by companies that have the required resources. This type of capital investment is discouraged, in the opinion of the Board, by legislation which, apart from any restrictive affect that it may have upon the employer's operation, contains provisions leading to uncertainty. The proposed legislation providing for regulations which may be changed from day to day instills uncertainty in the employer who must plan for the future and who must be in the position to accurately predict and control his costs.

To be meaningful and practical the legislation must be specific in its application. While definite in principle as to the Limitation of Hours of Work, the need of flexibility in providing for longer hours of work in certain industries must be clearly defined. The necessity of obtaining approval to work employees overtime must be limited and only required where excessive hours are contemplated on a long continuous basis. To do otherwise would lead to uncertainties and stifle the economic and social development of the Northwest Territories.

It will be noted upon perusal of the summaries of the briefs that the consensus of opinion disclosed no objection to a minimum wage of One Dollar and Twenty-five cents ($1.25) an hour and annual vacation of two (2) weeks with pay and the seven (7) general holidays. It was suggested that the general holidays should not be bonus holidays (as presently contemplated by the Ordinance), that is employees being entitled to a general holiday if same falls within his scheduled day of work and further certain conditions should be set forth to qualify an employee to receive general holiday pay.

The question of the limitation of hours of work is the most serious matter before the Board. The impact of such legislation received by far the majority attention, and discussion at the hearings. Being mindful of the need of the orderly, economic development of the Northwest Territories and the need of establishing labour standards for the protection of the employees, the development of a working force without discrimination, and to protect the human dignity of the worker the Board recommends as follows:

HOURS OF WORK

- (a) The general limitation of Hours of Work be based on eight (8) hours a day, forty-eight (48) hours a week.
- (b) For exploration and development of metal mining and petroleum, including geophysical, geological, seismological and diamond drilling be based on Two Hundred and Eight (208) hours in a month.
- (c) That transportation primarily engaged in the transport of goods to isolated areas be based on Two Hundred and Eight (208) hours per month.

- (d) That tourist camp employees and commercial fishermen be based on Two Hundred and Eight (208) hours per month.
- (e) Hunting and fishing guides be removed from the limitation of hours of work.
- (f) In the case of isolated mines and oilwell drilling, provision be made for the accumulation of days of rest where the operations are on a continuous basis. Such accumulation of days of rest to be limited to a period of six (6) months, except with the approval of the competent authority established in the ordinance.
- (g) Provision in continuous operations for approval of shift schedules.
- (h) Provision for further exception upon application to a competent authority.

OVERTIME

In cases where eight (8) hours in a day and forty-eight (48) hours in a week are applicable, all hours in excess of the daily limit and the weekly limit established therein are overtime hours.

In the cases of industries established on a monthly total of Two Hundred and eight (208) hours then all hours in excess are overtime.

In industries and undertakings to which the basic eight (8) hour day and forty-eight (48) hour week is applicable then no permit to work overtime be required, except in cases where overtime exceeds two (2) hours in the day and twelve (12) hours in the week.

The Board considers that a punitive payment for overtime hours should be sufficient deterrent and removes the necessity of obtaining overtime permission.

And further, in cases of accident or break-down to machinery and unforeseeable and unforeseeable circumstances overtime may be worked beyond the ten (10) hours a day and sixty (60) hours a week without permission. Such emergency overtime can only be worked where it is necessary to avoid serious interference with the ordinary working of the undertaking.

MINIMUM WAGES

The Board would recommend that:

- (a) The minimum wage of One Dollar and Twenty-five cents ($1.25) be fixed in the Ordinance.

- (b) The minimum wage for overtime be fixed at time and one half the regular rate of pay payable to the employee.

VACATIONS WITH PAY

The Board recommends:

- (a) Vacation with pay be established on a two (2) week basis after completion of one year of service with an employer.
- (b) In cases where an employee has not completed a year's service, upon termination be paid in lieu of vacation with pay a sum equivalent to four per cent of his regular earnings received from his employer.
- (c) As the Board does not favour bonus (general holidays) the employee should not be entitled to any additional benefits if a general holiday falls within his vacation period.

GENERAL HOLIDAYS

The Board recommends that the ordinance provide for eight (8) paid general holidays. The Board further recommends for an employee to qualify for entitlement of a general holiday the following conditions must exist:

- (a) That the general holiday falls upon a scheduled work day.

- (b) That the employee has reported for work the required shift before and after the general holiday.
- (c) If the employee does not work on the general holiday to which he is entitled he shall receive his regular days pay.
- (d) If an employee is required to work on a general holiday he shall be paid his regular pay plus an additional day's pay.

ADMINISTRATION AND GENERAL

It will be noted that the Board's recommendations, briefly set forth above, will remove the necessity of the proposed requirements of obtaining approval of the Commissioner.

In recognizing the needs of industry and to insure beneficial protection to the employees, the law must provide guide lines in the way suggested by the Board, so that there will be no impairment to the industrial development of the Territories.

At all of the Hearings of the Board strong feelings were expressed of the desirability of locating the Administration of this ordinance in the Territories, particularly in the Mackenzie District.

The Board is aware that this question, besides others, is within the ambit of the Inquiry of the Carrothers Commission and would therefore hesitate to make any recommendations thereon. However, the Board feels that it is competent in suggesting alternatives, without in any way encroaching in the field of endeavours of the Carrothers Commission.

In the field of administration and enforcement of labour standards legislation administration from a long range is not desirable. Therefore,

- (a) If the present form of government of the Northwest Territories remains then the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner should be located in the most densely populated area in the Northwest Territories, with an administrative office in the Eastern Arctic.
- (b) If the government of the Northwest Territories is changed to the form of a provincial government, then a Labour Standards Board be established. This Board would be a tripartite board consisting of one representative of the employer, one representative of the employees, and the third, the Chairman, a civil servant. In view of the experience in the other provinces of Canada that a Board consisting of representatives of employers and employees assures the employers and employees that their interests are carefully protected, the legislation is more easily accepted and the problems of administration minimized.

Such a Board would, of course, be responsible to the Commissioner and to the Council.

Referring back to clause (a), even if no changes are made in the structure of government of the Northwest Territories, then consideration should be given to the establishment of an administrative Labour Standards Board as suggested in Clause (b).

At the Hearings a request was made for another opportunity to review the new draft Ordinance before promulgation.

The Board appreciates the decision to follow this procedure rests with the Commissioner and the Council. However, to be of assistance, the Board has drafted a Labour (Standards) Ordinance. It is attached hereto as Appendix A. This draft Ordinance contains all of the recommendations of the Board.

SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT

SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT

The Board would be remiss if it did not bring to your attention the views and opinions of the citizens of the Northwest Territories, which indirectly, or in some cases, were entirely outside of the terms of reference, but nevertheless of vital concern in the economic and social development of the Territories.

NORTHERN ALLOWANCES

While it can be appreciated, to attract persons to take employment in the Territories from the outside, in view of the high cost of living, a northern allowance payment is justified and logical; to the white and non-white population, the permanent citizens in the Territories not employed by government agencies and thus in the main not receiving northern allowances, this is a matter over which they feel aggrieved, for they are faced with the same high cost of living as anyone else.

It was suggested that personal income tax exemption should be increased to Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000) per person and an appropriate increase for dependants. This variance from the ordinary income tax personal deductions for outlying and developing areas is entertained in the Soviet Union and in Australia. We would submit that there is merit to the suggestion. If such a plan for increased personal deduction was adopted then an examination could be made of making an appropriate reduction in a northern allowance to narrow the gap of the earnings of those who receive and those who do not receive a northern allowance.

A complaint was registered of alleged abuse of the northern allowance regulation which requires a person to be employed three (3) months before becoming entitled to the northern allowance. That employees have been released a few days before they could qualify on one pretext or another.

While the Board appreciates that this is an internal regulation of the Departments involved, and the three (3) month period without a doubt is to assist in recruiting from the outside, review should be made of the application of this regulation.

COST OF LIVING

While the Board has not available all the statistical information as to the cost of living in the Territories, it was suggested that the cost of living varied from thirty (30) to fifty (50) per cent above the cost of living in the City of Edmonton in the various locations in the Territory.

It is quite obvious that a great deal of the increase in the cost of living is attributable to transportation costs and warehousing. The Board would suggest that consideration be given to subsidizing transportation costs to reduce the cost of living to make the implementation of labour standards more meaningful to those stalwart Canadians who live in the Territories. The subsidizing of transportation would also reduce the cost of fuel oil, the main source of fuel in the Territories.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR NON-WHITE

This is an area which we suggest requires a great deal of understanding and consideration. A spokesman representing a group of non-white citizens and individuals complained that they were not given job opportunities in many places where the recruitment for employees has taken place outside of the Territories.

Complaints can be listed as follows:

The wives of civil servants and naval personnel taking positions which could be filled by non-white females who, it was suggested, with job training and guidance in personal hygiene and manners could perform the work required.

We appreciate, of course, the social problems involved, nevertheless, strong emphasis was placed particularly with reference to navy personnel, where they are posted in the north for a limited period of several years only, and who may not have any interest at all in the development of the country. The question was asked: Should they take away the job opportunities of the non-white citizens?

We would like to congratulate the Department responsible for the earnest endeavours in the field of education. To us, we believe, education is the key to open the door to job opportunities and make a fuller life for the Canadians in the north. We had the opportunity of visiting the two marvellous institutions of learning at Yellowknife and Inuvik. We observed, with interest, in one particular school a class of girls learning to be typists and stenographers, but as we had not noticed any of the non-white girls working at this vocation in industry, we asked the question of the Principal - Where would these girls go to seek employment? The answer was that if they could not find employment in the Territories efforts were made to place them in employment outside.

To us, something is radically wrong when employers stated that they had difficulty in recruiting typists and stenographers from the outside. The question is: Why were not the local residents given an opportunity in employment? As far as we could ascertain, the main reason given by employers was that non-whites paid little attention to personal hygiene. Surely, with understanding and patience, this problem could be removed.

It was also brought to our attention that non-whites seeking employment in the government service were required to pass examinations based on the same standards for those seeking employment in the government service in other parts of Canada. In view of the marvellous endeavours of the educational authorities in trying to improve the academic and vocational learning of the non-whites, would it not be only logical that a lower standard for admittance into government employment should be introduced and a planned programme of training on the job be followed to upgrade the non-white employees, while they are employed, to the required standards for the positions.

We feel that if this procedure is followed private industry could be encouraged to do likewise.

We wonder if anyone can appreciate the frustration and heartbreak of a young girl who has finished vocational training to be a stenographer, and then has not been given a job opportunity and is then forced to return to her old way of life. Such results cannot be allowed to continue.

It is quite evident that more emphasis must be placed on the need of training in vocational and trades. The human resources are there in the Territories and without adequate training they will not have the opportunity of being fully, gainfully employed and will continue to be an economic burden on welfare.

Training under programmes of vocational, technical and apprenticeship are shared between the Provincial and the Federal Government and we would suggest that similar programmes be developed for the Territories.

In certain areas we were advised that local non-white were not given an opportunity to work in the construction field. There appears to be lack of liaison between employers and responsible non-white representatives. It would appear that more emphasis must be placed on the need of full cooperation between employers, the local groups or persons and the placement officers of the Department.

There is a vital need of the appointment of a local committee in each of the main towns and villages or settlements, on a daily fee basis, to assist in counselling and placement of employees, not only in the construction field but in all potential places of employment.

Some criticism was expressed of the manner in which Departments opened for tender to the lowest bidder certain menial maintenance jobs such as window washing, giving the contract to the lowest bidder but paying no regard to the fact that as a non-white, not experienced in bidding for contracts, he cannot perform the work required to enable him a living from the contract. Surely the administrator or engineer in charge would know the reasonable figure at which the contract should be performed, and thus not necessarily grant the contract to the lowest bidder. There is a feeling that this is a form of exploitation of native help. Of course, one remedy would be to accept a policy that when the standards ordinance is promulgated, that all persons employed by government agencies shall enjoy at least the standards established in law.

To encourage employment of the non-white population, should not the government develop a policy that in any project for the government the contractor must employ a certain percentage of non-white employees. The percentage of course would have to be established on the availability of workers in the area in which the project is located. We appreciate that some contractors may view such a policy with alarm, but as they would be enjoying a government contract, should they not also accept the responsibility as Canadians to assist not only the development of the country but the development of human resources. In this regard the Board also recommends that summer employment of university students from outside should be kept at a minimum and preference be given to local residents.

At Frobisher Bay the Teachers' Association submitted a brief dealing with teacher problems in the north. The spokesman for the Association impressed us with his sincerity and dedication to his profession. Two (2) major items were stressed. He suggested to improve the relationship between the student, parents and the teacher, the teacher should be individually housed in the settlements so that the student and parent could feel free at any time to visit the teacher in his or her home. From the Board's little knowledge of the housing facilities for teachers in the north it would appear that this is a special situation in Frobisher Bay that may not exist in other parts of the Territories.

The second item we feel is of more importance, and that is regarding the training of teachers for the north. The spokesman for the Association stated that while the teacher may have full teaching qualifications as required outside, that when they first are posted in the Territories they are completely lost for a number of years as they do not understand the language, have no knowledge of the environment and culture of the Eskimo. This, he stated handicaps the teachers in carrying out their duties. The brief submitted by the Teachers' Association, we would recommend, requires careful review by competent persons in the educational field.

LABOUR RELATIONS

Presently for those industries not within the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, Chapter 52, R.S.C. 1952 has no application unless the employer and his employees mutually agree to be bound by the provisions of this Federal Statute.

The Board suggests that the full right of employees to enjoy collective bargaining is impaired under these arrangements where the right of collective bargaining could be denied the employees by the employer refusing to give consent.

Employees must be guaranteed the freedom of association, and the right to compel the employer to enter into collective bargaining where it is the majority wish of the employees in a unit appropriate for collective bargaining.

However, presently, due to the small size of the working force in the Northwest Territories, it would not be practical for the Territories to establish and operate its own Labour Relations Board.

It is logical to suggest that the Northwest Territories pass enabling legislation providing authority for the Territories to enter into an agreement with the Federal Department of Labour to administer the legislation similar to the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

Anti-Discrimination Law

It is suggested that careful consideration be given to enacting legislation to provide for additional protection to employees in seeking employment and while in employment.

Such legislation should boldly declare the fundamental principle that all persons are equal in dignity and human rights without regard to race, religious beliefs, colour, ancestry or place of origin and further provide for equal pay for equal work disregarding the sex of the employee.

The Board appreciates until the administration is established to administer the Labour Standard Ordinance it would be impractical to enact anti-discrimination laws. However, with the passing of a few years of administrative experience in the field of labour standards it would then be timely to enact anti-discrimination laws to give full recognition to the human dignity of the worker.
