ABORIGINAL STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT EDUCATION PLAN

STATUS UPDATE – MARCH 2013

Minister's Message

We are at the beginning of an exciting new era in education and our eyes must be open to the realities that schools and the world of learning is changing. The work being done in response to the Aboriginal Student Achievement (ASA) Education Plan has helped us realize that we need to do more than just fix or tweak our existing education system. We need to think big and consider what we want for our students, what we need from our education system, and what we must do to get it.

During the ASA forums, we learned that our current education system does not work for many of our students and as a result their needs are not adequately met. We cannot accept anyone being left behind. Our unique Northwest Territories (NWT) context also includes many other needs that are not necessarily being considered. At the same time, a disconnect is emerging globally between what students are learning in schools and what is actually needed in the world as they transition from school into the workplace. All these facts underscore a critical and urgent need for educational renewal, change and innovation.

Trust has been placed in each and every one of us to ensure our children succeed. We must work together to provide a system that helps all students regardless of where they live, how they learn or what struggles or barriers they may need to overcome.

The ASA Education Plan has laid the foundation for the work we are doing and will continue to do. As such, the invaluable information and feedback gained from the ASA Regional Forums in 2010-2011 will continue to guide our work.

Linked to ASA initiatives, we are working on a Safe Schools Strategy which addresses the destructive issue of bullying; a review of Inclusive Schooling practices; a renewal of the NWT Early Childhood Framework; and the implementation of a nationally-acclaimed, ground breaking Residential School teaching resource. We will also be working closely with the new NWT Mental Health and Addictions Strategy developed by the Department of Health and Social Services (HSS) as well as with the interdepartmental work of the NWT Anti-Poverty Strategy.

We are taking our first steps on a journey of change. This status update of the ASA Education Plan represents one of those steps. We are going to make a difference for our children. We are going to give them hope and the knowledge, skills and tools they require to be capable and healthy people. We are going help them make their future great.

What is the Aboriginal Student Achievement (ASA) Education Plan?

- The purpose of the Aboriginal Student Achievement (ASA) Education Plan is to identify strategic actions to eliminate the achievement gap between Aboriginal and other students.
- The Plan outlines 91 actions to improve educational achievement for Aboriginal students.
- The draft plan was developed by an ASA Working Group, informed by 6 Regional Forums, further developed by the Department of Education Culture and Employment (ECE) and endorsed by Aboriginal and educational leaders.

The ASA Education Plan is available
@ www.ece.gov.nt.ca

The future of the Northwest Territories depends on the strengths of its people.

In the NWT as in other parts of Canada, Aboriginal youth are the fastest growing segment of our population and play a key role in our Territory's future. They require the skills and knowledge to shape Northern society in ways that are meaningful, as Northerners, Canadians and international citizens, and to carry on Aboriginal languages and traditions.

NWT Aboriginal people must have opportunities and be encouraged and supported to learn and retain their Aboriginal culture and language while also gaining western learning. In the words of respected Tłı̄ch̄q Elder, Elizabeth Mackenzie, who paraphrased the late Tłı̄ch̄q Chief Jimmy Bruneau, by stating that Aboriginal people in the NWT must become "strong like two people". They need to have a strong sense of their identity, as well as be able to successfully navigate the western and global world.

ASA Guiding Principles

The principles that guide the work of the ASA Education Plan are based on the ECE Strategic Plan 2005-2015 “Building on Our Success” and were further defined through consultation with stakeholders at the Minister’s Regional ASA forums.

These principles are:

1. The Aboriginal languages and cultures of the NWT are valued and serve as the foundation for developing and delivering our education system.
2. Investment in NWT Aboriginal people’s education is an investment in all NWT people.
3. Programs and services are responsive to the changing social, economic, political and constitutional environment of the NWT.
4. ECE strives to work collaboratively and respectfully with all Aboriginal governments, education authorities, community governments, business and industry, government departments and agencies to improve the educational, social and economic outcomes of Aboriginal people.
5. ECE is committed to respect and focus on the four priorities determined through the ASA consultation process:

ASA Community Working Groups (ASACWG)

ASA is a shared responsibility that requires the attention of all educational stakeholders. Parental and Community engagement was identified as one of the most significant factors of Aboriginal student achievement and success at the Minister's forums on ASA, as well as at the Aboriginal and Educational Leadership meeting held in Yellowknife in May 2012.

At the Minister's Forums on ASA in 2010-11, communities began to develop community action plans for improving ASA, and in 2011, ASA Community Working Groups (ASACWG) were being formed by community members to help initiate their community action plans.

The intention of the ASACWGs is to engage the community in initiating the actions outlined in both the 'Community Action Plans' developed at the regional ASA Forums, as well as the actions outlined in the 'ASA Education Plan'.

ASACWGs are meant to be created, implemented and structured according to the unique needs of the individual group or community. Due to the volunteer nature of these groups, there is no formal funding or reporting structure in place at this time.

The hope is for these working groups to go beyond the limitations and restrictions that specific reporting and funding can have, to become an effective way to positively affect student success for their own distinct contexts.

The importance of engaging community in conversations about student achievement and the value of education are incredibly important first steps in seeing our students succeed.

The success of ASACWGs will depend on the commitment and engagement of local community members, Aboriginal leaders and educational leaders including superintendents, principals and school staff.

The creation of ASA Community Working Groups (ASACWG) is a step in the right direction to making that happen, bringing together the voices of our communities. The right group of interested, engaged and committed volunteers can become a unified voice speaking for the children.

Background

ASA Working Group

In 2009/10 ECE held a series of partners' workshops to examine best practices and approaches to improving Aboriginal student achievement. The Aboriginal Student Achievement Working Group (ASAWG) evolved from these workshops.

The ASAWG was established for a one-year period to develop a draft NWT-wide education plan to eliminate the educational achievement gap between Aboriginal and other students. Its mandate was to consider and make recommendations on:

- Early childhood and child care supports to ready young children for school
- Kindergarten to Grade 12 supports to enable students to stay in, and succeed in school
- Active engagement of parents, communities, and their leaders in supporting ASA

The ASAWG had membership from Aboriginal organizations, NWT Literacy Council, the NWT Teachers' Association (NWTTA), school boards, Aurora College, and three Government departments. Industry representatives also participated in some ASAWG meetings.

The Aboriginal Student Achievement Working Group (ASAWG) led the development of the draft Plan. ASAWG members and alternates:

Minister's Regional ASA Forums

In the 2010-11 school year, the Minister of Education, Culture and Employment (ECE) and staff from the Department travelled to all six Regions to hold forums.

REGION	LOCATION OF FORUM	DATE
Sahtu	Norman Wells	Sept 28-30, 2010
Tłı̄chǫ	Behchokò (Edzo)	Nov 17-19, 2010
Dehcho	Fort Simpson	Jan 5-7, 2011
Yellowknife	Dettah	Jan 18-20, 2011
South Slave	K'at'l'odeeche (Hay River) Reserve	Apr 5-7, 2011
Beaufort Delta	Inuvik	May 3-5, 2011

These forums were intended to engage with, get active participation from, and create stronger partnerships between ECE, education authorities, and Aboriginal governments. In total, approximately 380 people participated in the regional forums.

Participants included, from each community:

- 2 youth
- 2 Aboriginal leaders
- 2 education leaders
- School principals
- MLAs and Mayors
- Aurora College staff
- GNWT Staff
- NWTTA Union Representative

What we heard at the Regional Forums

Participants in the regional forums confirmed that the four key pillars identified by the ASA working group are indeed the four main areas of primary focus, namely early childhood, literacy, student and family supports and Aboriginal language curriculum and resource development.

Participants also agreed that many people and organizations have a role and responsibility for the education of students. This responsibility is shared between schools, educators, parents, families, regional and community leaders, employers, and others in the community.

Participants also agreed that it is important for all stakeholders to work closely together and have strong working relationships that support the education of students. This was evidenced by the commitment of community leaders to work together to support students in obtaining the education outcomes they desire.

Some common themes identified in all regional meetings include:

- Partners should work together to improve parental involvement in their children's education and a variety of supports should be provided for parents;
- More focus is required on early childhood programs and services;
- Each community should have a plan and a committee to work on improving their students' achievement;
- More classroom time is needed for languages and culture-based education;
- Improve communication between leaders and educators so they can continue to work together effectively;
- Improve student attendance;
- Improve technology capabilities;
- School needs to be an encouraging, safe environment for students; and
- Address social challenges such as poverty, addictions and bullying.

When the school and parents are committed to working together there are positive results.

*~ Bill Erasmus,
Dene National Chief*

ASA Education Partnership Declaration

Aboriginal leadership gave a clear message on the importance of attendance at school and community involvement in educating students.

In July 2011, an NWT ASA Education Partnership Declaration was signed by Aboriginal and educational leadership to endorse the ASA Education Plan.

In April 2012, the National Chief of the Assembly of First Nations, Shawn A-in-chut Atleo, also signed the declaration to demonstrate his support of the initiative.

We must act today across the country so that our children have the same educational opportunities as other children while respecting the importance of our languages and cultures.

*~ Assembly of First Nations National Chief
Shawn A-in-chut Atleo*

The leaders declared their commitment to 3 articles:

- We recognize that public education aims to achieve quality education for all students and we all have roles and responsibilities for making improvements that will eliminate the gap in education achievement between Aboriginal and other students.
- We commit to working together and supporting each other's work to provide a quality education system in the Northwest Territories at the territorial, regional and community level that will eliminate the gap in education outcomes between Aboriginal and other students.
- We agree that the priorities for attention and action that will eliminate the gap between Aboriginal and other students are:
  1. Early Childhood Development & Child Care
  2. Family and Student Support
  3. Aboriginal Language and Culture
  4. Literacy

"We're on the verge of achieving our greatest gift. We're sharing our ideas and building a foundation that we may have lost, but through the elders, youth and educators, we're putting together a package that's the voice of the Northwest Territories."

~ Minister Jackson Lafferty

ASA Education Plan

ASA STANDS FOR ABORIGINAL STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT AND REFERS TO THE 2011 ASA EDUCATION PLAN PRODUCED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, CULTURE AND EMPLOYMENT (ECE).

The Vision: Aboriginal students, with a strong foundation for learning, achieving their education potential and contributing to a strong and prosperous society.

What is ASA?

In the NWT, and across Canada, Aboriginal youth are the fastest growing segment of our population and play a key role in the future of our Territories. They require the skills and knowledge to shape Northern society in ways that are meaningful, as Northerners, Canadians and international citizens, and to carry on Aboriginal languages and traditions.

The education of our NWT youth is a shared responsibility and there is a role for everyone: governments, non-profit agencies, communities, families, industry and students themselves.

The purpose of the ASA Education Plan is to identify strategic actions to eliminate the achievement gap between Aboriginal and other students.

The plan was guided by the information gathered during six ASA Minister's Regional Forums held in 2010-11 with education, Aboriginal, community and youth leaders.

Based on the engagement and feedback from approximately 380 participants, it was agreed that it was essential to develop an overarching Territory-wide plan to address the achievement gap in education between Aboriginal and other students.

To demonstrate the shared commitment to work together in a collaborative a cooperative manner, the Minister of Education proposed that Aboriginal governments and educational leaders sign an "ASA Education Partnership Declaration" which was done in May 2011.

91 specific actions have been identified to help improve educational achievement for Aboriginal students.

The four priorities of the ASA Education plan are:

1. Early Childhood Development & Child Care
2. Student & Family Support
3. Aboriginal Language & Culture
4. Literacy
