FIGHTING OVER THE LAND

The trouble all started from a man who wanted to buy a golf course on mohawk land and the mohawks were not happy about it. The mohawks were arguing with the government and saying that they bought it for them. The government was not fair at all. They never even gave it to them yet and the man who wanted to buy a golf course should just forget about it and get it some place else.

A hand-drawn sketch in black ink on a white background. It depicts a landscape with a bridge crossing a body of water. The bridge is drawn with thick, dark lines. To the right of the bridge, a sign is mounted on two posts. The sign is rectangular and contains the text 'This is Mohawk Land' written in a cursive, hand-drawn style. The background is filled with light, sketchy lines suggesting a sky or distant land.

IN OKA QUEBEC

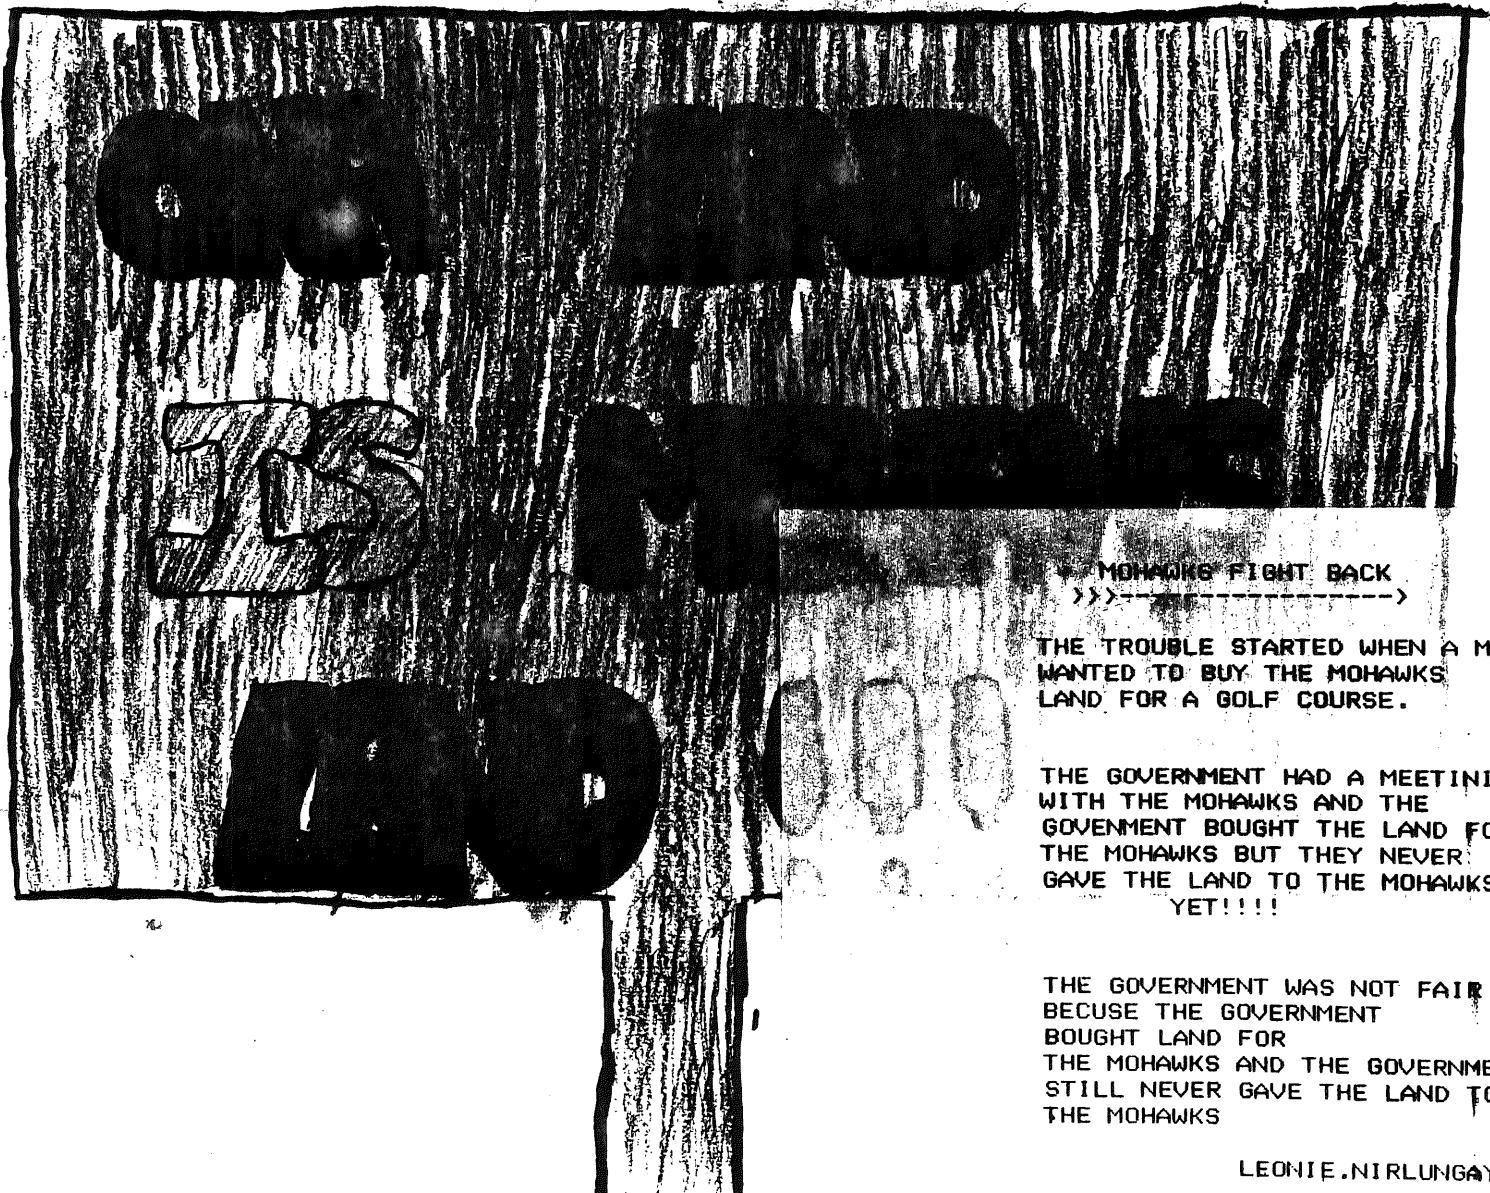

A man bought the land in Oka. He wanted to make a golf course in Oka. The Mohawks didn't like the plan of the new golf course. The Mohawks made a roadblock on a bridge in Oka Quebec. Mohawk Warriors shot a cop in the head.

The Government tried to stop the Warriors but it didn't work. The Warrior won't surrender. So the Government bought the land in Oka. But they still never give it back to the Indians. The Government send an army. The army is there to try to move Warriors off the bridge.

The Government wasn't fair because they never give back the land to the Mohawks.
